As our company name asecos, which is a combination of security and ecology, suggests we are passionate about environmental protection and the safe handling of hazardous chemicals. Since the foundation of our company in 1994 asecos has dedicated itself to the research and development of products for storing hazardous materials and has already brought several innovations on the market.

Our range of products contains:

- BS EN 14470-1 approved safety cabinets
- pressure gas cylinder cabinets according to the new BS EN 14470-2
- workstations for hazardous materials, fume hoods,
- Ventilation options for safety cabinets
- Additional equipment to improve the handling of hazardous materials

Core competence safety cabinets

The expertise of asecos in the handling of hazardous materials goes to a new level: The development, construction and production of safety cabinets. With the introduction of the FWF90-Technology in 1994 asecos has made an innovative difference in the market place. However this is not the only reason that asecos is the leading company in Europe when it comes to safety cabinets.

asecos does more than just make the handling of hazardous materials safer, we actually train our via our asecos Roadshow, where we demonstrate the advantages of our safety cabinets on the premises of our customer.

Quality in every way

Every asecos product is without exception "Made in Germany". The production is carried out in our Headquarters in Gründau. Specialised Wholesalers and Catalogue partners take care of the distribution in Germany. Throughout Europe we are represented by asecos subsidiaries or selected partners in The Netherlands, France, Spain, Great Britain and Italy.

Speed, passion, expert knowledge as well as innovation are the features that asecos customers appreciate and result in a solid base for success. Qualities you can take advantage of! With products made from asecos you have made your decision for the highest level of protection, when it comes to storing hazardous materials.
